ELLE COIFFURE

ELLE COIFFURE BY ELEONORA KROET

Raised as the daughter of a mother who owned 3 hairdresser salons I learned the profession from an early age on. Starting from my earliest childhood I understood that a pretty and well taken care of hairdo can positively emphasize a woman's beauty.

Cutting and styling comes naturally to me and personal attention and styling advice are important to me.

I began by earning my merchants license in the Netherlands and I went to a trade school for hairdressers and styling and earned an all-around degree.

Subsequently I moved to France to continue my schooling.

I studied at the renowned French, International Hairdressers chains, Jacques Dessange, in Paris, Lyon, and in Saint- Tropez. I learned all about their personal style.

I gained a lot of knowledge about scalp and hair care. I trained as a hair dresser.

I received sales training, and attended different courses in personal development.

Upon returning to the Netherlands, I was able to apply all my know how and training as Product-manager for Eugene Parma in the Netherlands. I gave technical trainings for scalp care and hair coloring. I also organized events and shows for professional hair dressers

Currently I am at work as freelance hairdresser. I am keenly aware of my focus.

The personal nature of my approach is essential. When giving a styling advice, I keep in mind who you are, what you do, and your specific wishes. As a result of my International experience and fluency in different languages, I work not only with a local clientele, but also for an increasingly international clientele, expats living in the Netherlands, wanting to communicate in French or English with their Hairdresser.

Everyone is Welcome!

I am of the opinion that hair care is more than just cutting and coloring.

It is a total package that should make you feel good and at ease with yourself giving you a new look that affects your life in the positive.
